The Ladies of the Methodist church will have an exchange at the post office on Saturday before Easter.

J. D. Guley has accepted a position as assistant Post Master, and W. B. West is managing Rural Route number 3.

Knight Templar, G. S. Greenleaf, J. M. Rothwell and J. L. Gill attended the funeral of Col Samuel H. Stone, at Richmond, on Tuesday.

This is the week of prayer with the C. W. B. M. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday will be devoted to prayer service.

Sunday school will begin at the Pleasant Hill school house on new Danville pike, Sunday afternoon, April 11.

An unusual run on advertising forced the omission of much good reading matter this week. Contributors will see the situation.

A Bible chair is to be established in Kentucky University. The Lancaster Christian church has been asked to contribute $100. Over $60 was given Sunday morning at Sunday school.

Through an oversight there was an omission of two Honor Roll Students of the Lancaster Graded School. They are Besse Brown, of the twelfth grade, and Elizabeth Ford of the sixth grade.

Death of Mrs. Lee.
Mrs. W. B. Lee died at her home at Nina on Thursday, of rheumatism of the heart, aged 39 years. The deceased is survived by her husband, two daughters, a sister, one brother and mother. The burial occurred Friday in the family burying ground.

Good Example for other Towns.
Our efficient City Council deserves the thanks of the people for having absolutely swept the streets, and the public square, is a thing of beauty.

This is not only helpful in appearance, but in sanitary conditions, as clouds of dust disseminate disease and have bad effect on the throat and lungs.

Lodges.
Dr. Willey speaks a great truth when he says: "I never put anything above the church of Christ. No lodge not all the lodges together, can supersede the organized church; but by the side of the church are great institutions aiding, encouraging, and reinforcing, doing a work the church is not expected to do. Fraternal benefit societies are preaching the gospel of good cheer, the doctrine of kindness, of brotherly love, of wise provision for the future and the rainy day."

The Ladies Aid Society will meet Saturday, with Mrs. J. E. Robinson, on Lexington Ave.

The Fiscal Court was in session Tuesday and will meet again Friday, when they will consider and let contracts for repairing of turnpikes.

The L. & N. will begin to run their excursions to Cincinnati, Sunday, April 18th, and will continue to run every other Sunday during the summer.

The State Board of Equalization has increased the valuation of town lots in this city, 10 per cent. This is not bad as our property is really increasing in value.

Several members of the Lancaster Masonic Lodge went to Stanford Monday night to assist in conferring the third degree in Masonry. After the lodge a beautiful banquet was given and our men report a royal time.

Cantata.
The "Juniors" of the Christian Church will give an Easter Cantata, "The Message of the Lilies," Sunday night. They cordially invite their friends, and all others who are interested in children's work.

The Tenth District Bible School Convention, of the Christian churches, meets at Richmond on the night of April 20th and continues through the 21st. The counties included are Garrard, Madison, Lincoln, and Pulaski. A large attendance is desired and expected.

Fancy Work.
I have a very pretty line of Fancy Embroidered Spirt Waists, Collars, Ties, Belts, Centre Pieces, etc., worked both in one and two colors. Also a lot of pretty designs for stamping. Call and see them.
Miss Fannie Wilson.

First Ball Game.
The first ball game of the season was played here Friday afternoon, between Lancaster and Frankfort K. N. and I. I. colored teams, and a large crowd of enthusiasts witnessed it, despite the coolness of the evening. Unfortunately the Frankfort team ran 12 scores to Lancaster's 11.

Newspaper Men At Estill.
At meeting of the executive committee, Kentucky Press Association, held at Louisville Thursday, it was decided to hold the summer meeting and outing at Estill Springs the last week in June. This will be hailed with delight by the pencil pushers who have had the pleasure of meeting at this delightful resort. Committees were appointed to make all necessary arrangements, prepare program, etc. It is the intention to produce many new features to entertain the press boys, and Manager Riddell will feed them on the fat of the lamb. The secretary will send out information as soon as all arrangements are completed. Indications point to the largest attendance in history of the association, as the newspaper men have learned that a week spent at a delightful resort, with his brothers is productive of more pleasure, rest and recreation than anything he can try, to say nothing of the good derived from listening to the exchange of views by practical newspaper men.—Richmond Climax.

What Lancaster Needs.
We have spoken in our columns several times in regard to the necessity of a Commercial Club in Lancaster and it has met with much interest, yet not enough to organize.

The columns of the Record are open to any suggestion along this line and would ask, for our next publication, nominations for the following officers: President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer. At the same time that nominations are offered it might be wise to suggest a date to meet for organization.

The more we get into it the less it will cost us and certainly the yearly dues would not be enough to stand in any wide-awake man's way of offering his name as a member.

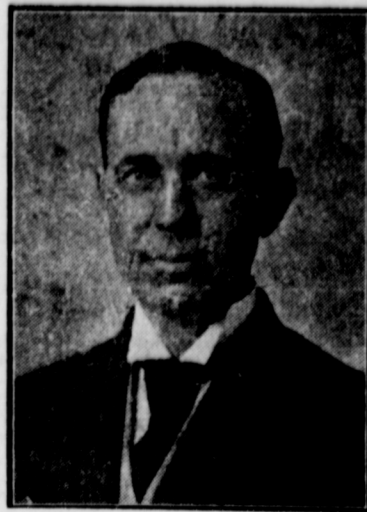

"Today is short, Yesterday is gone, Tomorrow may never come, If we're going to organize, let's get busy."

City Council.

Considerable business was disposed of, by the City Council on Monday night, and that body is very watchful of the people's interests. A committee was appointed to solicit and to oil the public square and part of the streets; an arc light was ordered for Water Street; an ordinance was introduced seeking to repeal an ordinance against pool rooms; L. E. Herron reported that he had secured a strapping, back of Mrs. Ann Robinson's, and is ready to take up all stock running at large.

City Attorney, Walker, stated that Senator Bradley wrote him that he would introduce a bill, asking for a public building here, if he could get reasonable prices on suitable property on which to erect it. He read an agreement, by those adjoining the alley North of the post office, to close it, if it became necessary in the construction of the building. The council made an order consistent with this agreement. An attempt will be made to get prices, also, on property adjoining the North side of the public square, which would be a more desirable location. Everybody wants the building, and it would be a great improvement and make other property more valuable.

A Useful and Cultured Man.
It affords us a proud satisfaction to give a brief sketch of the work and career of

PROF. D. W. BRIDGES.
Principal of Lancaster Graded School. He was born in Bedford county, Tennessee, on Jan. 20, 1873. He graduated from Haynes-McLean School, Lewisburg Tennessee in 1894; taught four years in county schools; entered Cumberland University, in 1898, graduating in 1903; taught in the University preparatory school 1902-03; was principal of Carthage, Tennessee, Training school one year; was Superintendent of Greenfield (Tenn.) Graded Schools for three years, 1904-1907; was State Institute Instructor, in Tennessee, during summers of 1906-1907, and Principal of Lancaster Graded School 1907-1909.

He is a man full of experience and possessed of rare attainments—attractive in personal appearance, a gifted speaker, having the power to condense, his style being chaste and his diction pure. His life is given to the cause of education and his work here has been absolutely satisfactory, having charge of three hundred students and a splendid faculty. His superior executive ability and his power and aptitude in organization and discipline are remarkable.

Not least, among his superior qualifications, are thoroughness in work and the happy faculty of imparting knowledge to the student. His character for morality is beyond reproach and he always advocates those conditions that tend to promote the best interests of the community. The results of his labors here furnish abundant proof of the truth of the foregoing assertions.

G. S. Kelley's faithful dog, "Ponto," was accidentally killed by an automobile last week, at Marksburg.

To The Press Gang Bride and Groom.
The climax is told by Manager Riddell, of Estill Springs, that he will extend the courtesies of the resort—with out price—to the couple attending the press association meeting as bride and groom. Either the groom or bride must be a member of the Association. Allen, Pulliam, Hutton, both Richardsons and others will proceed to get busy.

A Promising Lawyer.
In one of the large classes of young lawyers that stood the examination before Judge Marshall, at La Grange, a few days ago, Green Clay Walker was admitted to practice at the bar.

Green Clay is gifted with a bright mind, and in many instances has proven his oratorical qualities, having won first honors in the Blue Grass Tournament held here a few years past.

Green Clay is a son of the late Judge W. E. Walker and Mrs. Dorcas Walker and a brother of City Attorney L. L. Walker, of this place, of whom too much could not be said of his success, having given satisfaction to the Louisville & Nashville R. R. sufficient to be retained as their attorney for years.

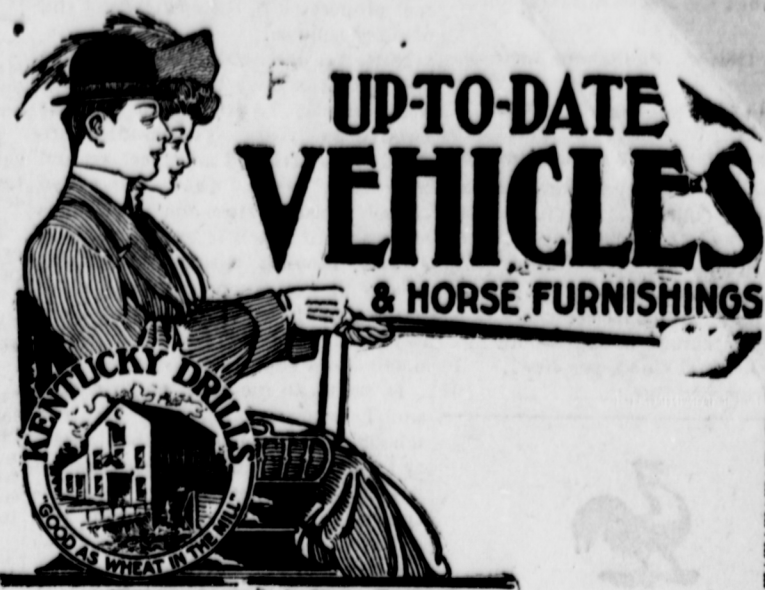

Not wishing to see a family divided against itself, yet we hope "Moon" will hang out his shingle in Lancaster.

Convention at Seelback Hotel.

People in this county are interested in the commercial convention which has been called to meet in Louisville April 23. The meeting will be held in the Red Room of the Seelback Hotel, and will last that afternoon, being followed in the evening by a banquet tendered by the Commercial Club. The delegates will be given the freedom of the Southern Electrical and Industrial Exposition, which will be open at that time.

A call sent out by the Commercial Club, of Louisville, which is arranging the affair, has gone to every commercial body and county judge in the State. It is asked that delegates be appointed by them to represent each county. The convention is expected to have representation from at least 100 counties in Kentucky, so that it will be the most inclusive gathering of the sort since the last State Development Convention.

The object of the meeting is to make the men of all sections of Kentucky known to those of other sections. The McCracken county man and the Carroll county man are to get together, and the Bullitt county man and Bell county man are to exchange ideas. The delegates will bring information of the resources and needs of their respective counties, and this information will be filed. It will be the first time that a systematic effort has been made to compile such information.

Hughes & Swinebroad, the real estate men, report that they have just sold for Henry A. Burdett his farm near Bryantsville, 11 miles from Lancaster, to James N. Sloan of Lincoln county at $65 per acre. Possession November 1st.

They also sold for Thomas McMillan his house and lot on Hamilton Avenue to H. C. Hamilton for $675, cash.

Death of "Dick" Gentry.

Richard Gentry, known to his intimates throughout the South and West as "Dick" Gentry, died in Lexington Friday after an illness of several months. He was a member of a Lincoln county family, being a brother of Smith Gentry, for years junior member of the firm of Baker & Gentry, proprietors of the Kingston stock farm and owners of an extensive racing stable.

He and his father's family were well known in this county and had many friends here.

Publishers League Meet in Lexington.

At a meeting of the Eighth District Publishers' League held Saturday afternoon in the ordinary of the Phoenix Hotel arrangements were made for the entertainment of the delegates to the Kentucky State Press Association, which will have its annual reunion at Estill Springs some time in June. The meeting was called at 2 o'clock and was presided over by President D. M. Button, of Harrodsburg.

Among those present were: D. M. Hutton, Harrodsburg; A. D. Miller, Richmond; Harry McCarty, Nicholasville; James Sowers, Valley View; Louis Landram, Richmond; C. E. Woods, Richmond; Stanley Frost, Berea; Edward Shinnick, Shelbyville; J. R. Paxton, Lawrenceburg; George Doghoy, Danville; Timothy Needham, Mt. Sterling; Judge N. H. McNew, Carlisle; Charles T. White, Harrodsburg.—Lexington Herald.

We regret that we were unable to attend this meeting but will surely be on hand at Estill Springs, and hope that the meeting will be pleasant and instructive, abounding in rich benefits for the fraternity.

Colored School Commencement.

The commencement exercises of the Lancaster Colored Public School occurred at the Court House Thursday and Friday nights of last week.

The exercises of the first night consisted of a beautiful cantata, "A Dream of Fairy Land" and a beautiful drill, being rendered by the pupils of the Primary and Intermediate departments. The exercises showed careful preparation, and the teachers of these grades, Mrs. Mary Leavelle and Miss Lillie Mason, deserve much credit for the excellent rendition of the program.

On Friday night the Commencement program was given before a large and appreciative audience, who liberally applauded the orations and essays. Many vocal and instrumental selections added greatly to the program.

Prof. E. E. Reed, of Frankfort, delivered the Commencement address, "Citizenship in a Democracy." Prof. F. M. Wood, of Lebanon, presented the diplomas to the following graduates: Nellie Follard, Ethel Waide, Fannie Lewis, Lizzie Penman and Frank Anderson.

The success of this school is due greatly to the excellent management of the Principal, Prof. L. D. Williams. He has all the requirements that go to make a principal worth having, and useless to say, he can undoubtedly hold the position for next year, if he so desires.

General News.

Vice Admiral Pascual Cervera who commanded the Spanish fleet in the battle of Santiago, Cuba, died Saturday.

James J. Jeffries has posted $10,000 to bind a match with Jack Johnson, the colored champion.

It is reported in New York that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is to increase its capitalization from $100,000,000 to $500,000,000.

There are some who still speak disparagingly of state-wide prohibition as found in Kansas. Recently referring to it Gov. Hick said:

Representative Victor Murdock, of Kansas, has introduced a bill in Congress calling upon the States to refund the money that Andrew Jackson distributed among them in 1836, when the surplus from the sale of public lands reached $38,000,000.

Fire originating in a barn, presumably from a carelessly dropped cigarette, started a conflagration in Fort Worth, Tex., which swept over many blocks in the residence section of the city, destroying four churches, more than 200 dwelling houses and the shops and roundhouses of the Texas Pacific railroad.

The body of 10 year-old Harold Moon, who disappeared from Flint, Mich., on February 27, and who was supposed to have been kidnapped, was found in Thread Lake. Rewards aggregating $1,300 had been offered for the boy's return to his home. He was evidently drowned while skating.

The House Committee on Ways and Means at a full meeting decided to amend the Payne tariff bill by removing the duty on tea and the countervailing duty on coffee. The committee also struck out the proviso in the lumber schedule fixing a countervailing duty.

That the Payne bill was filled with riotous imperfections, was a false pretense, was designed to cover up the extravagance of the Republican Administration, that it did not redeem party pledges, and that it sounded the death knell of the dominant party, were some of the criticisms passed upon the measure by the Democrats in the House. An interesting feature of the debate was the speech of Pablo Ocampo de Leon, the Philippine commissioner, who attacked the provision for free trade with the Philippine Islands.

"One-third of our counties are without prisoners in their jails or paupers in their poorhouses; one-half of our counties contributed no convicts to our prison population last year, and one-half of our prison inmates never lived in Kansas long enough to gain a residence here. Our educational institutions were never so flourishing. Our churches were never so strong, nor the spiritual outlook more hopeful. The saloon has been practically banished from our state and its baneful influence most entirely eliminated. All of these things should touch the cords of our better nature and make them vibrate with the reverent sentiment, 'Praise God from whom all blessings flow.'"

Layton.

Jerome Layton, a highly respected farmer, age about 50 years, died at his home, near McCreary, on Sunday evening of tuberculosis. After funeral services many relatives and friends followed the remains to Spoonville cemetery, on Monday, for interment. Deceased was related to many excellent people.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

To the Democratic party of the 13th Judicial District: I am a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Judge of this district. I prefer a primary election.

M. C. SAFFLEY.

We are authorized to announce Hon. Chas. A. Hardin, of Harrodsburg, as a candidate for re-nomination for the office of Commonwealth Attorney for the 13th Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce Hon. John Sam Owsly Jr. as a candidate for the nomination for circuit Judge of this 13th district, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The tariff bill is the biggest joke of this generation and the debate is a farce.

The twelve-page issue of the Danville Advocate, last week, was beautiful in appearance and make-up, and full of attractive and instructive matter.

The Kentucky State Journal says that Taft and Bradley have conferred to carry Kentucky, by the distribution of pie, but, it truly says, that the democrats will vote next time, and that U. S. Senators will not be traded by the whiskey people for votes to kill temperance legislation.

Mr. Simon Cook, of Shelby county, is a candidate for Commissioner of Prisons, and is represented by The Sentinel as a Simon pure democrat and altogether worthy, having served as Master Commissioner and at Frankfort, as Chief Clerk of the Corporation Department, and Assistant Secretary of State.

Some are exulting over the fact that the Court of Appeals, in a decision, said, "The right to use liquor for one's own comfort, if the use is without direct injury to the public, is one of a citizen's natural and inalienable rights, guaranteed to him by the Constitution." Nobody ever claimed to the contrary. A man can get all the whiskey he wants, so he is not suspected of selling it, and drink until he dies, provided he does so without injury to the public, which is difficult to do, as he may get drunk and commit a breach of the peace or neglect his family.

We have favored all enterprises for the good of Lancaster and Garrard county. A tobacco warehouse has been completed and is doing a thriving business. We have given a helping hand to Prof. Bridges, in his advocacy of a High School building. By establishing such an institution much of the money paid for education will be kept at home and our wealth and population will approximate that of two neighboring towns, which owe their prosperity to their schools. Besides this, keeping the children under the control of their parents is worth more than a dozen such buildings, to prevent sending them to boarding schools.

The next enterprise, and one which seems to be favored by people along the line and in this city, is the building of an Interurban Line to Nicholasville. We are too far from the city of Lexington to lose trade, as towns, nearer that city, which have such lines, have been benefited by them, both as a cheap, quick and pleasant means for travel, and quite useful in conveying freight. It would bring us more trade than we would lose. So let us have the road. We appoint John M. Farris, H. C. Sutton and Josh Kemper a committee to inquire and report who will give the right-of-way.

The General Welfare.

Four out of every five of the school children in Kentucky are in the rural schools. Four fifths of the citizens of the commonwealth must depend upon the county schools for their education. Thus, the general average intelligence, and the consequent prosperity and happiness, of the citizenship is in direct proportion to the efficiency of the county schools.

Now, no one needs to be told that the county schools in this state have made almost no progress in the last twenty five years. The children are huddled in little old unattractive and unsanitary boxes, which are called school houses. Here one teacher is supposed to teach 75 to 100 pupils in classes ranging through the eight grades of the common school, often having forty and fifty recitations a day. No teacher in the world can do much under such circumstances.

It seems to me that a good plan would be to consolidate the fifty odd schools of the county into about twenty five, repair or rebuild these twenty-five school houses making them attractive and sanitary. Then put two or more teachers into each of these schools and let the schools be graded. Two teachers with 150 pupils can do much better work than one teacher with 75 pupils, for the 75 pupils will range through as many classes as the 150. Lengthen the school term to eight or nine months, then when the pupils finish the common school and come up to the High School they are prepared to take up the regular work without the usual year's delay in adjustment.

In the more populous district graded schools with three to five teachers should be established, and if they do so desire a two years high school course can be maintained.

Then, at the county seat there should be a highly efficient High School for those pupils of the county who wish to pursue their studies further, or be fitted for entrance to college.

But, some one objects, such a scheme calls for increased taxation. Would that people might realize that money paid for education is an investment and not taxation! No investment pays a better immediate return in increased value of property wherever good schools are located; and the increased value of the well trained, well educated citizen over the illiterate cannot be estimated too highly.

A local levy of twenty cents for the county at large will be no burden. The towns and cities pay from twenty-five to fifty cents for schools, in addition to the other municipal taxes of seventy-five cents to one dollar. Scarcely a town is there in the state which does not pay as much as two dollars on the hundred. The state and county tax in Garrard is only one dollar. Twenty cents added will hardly be felt, and with that levy the schools can be extended to eight or nine months; teachers can be paid from $40 to $60 a month thus attracting first class teachers, the most important factor in any school system. Good salaries will bring into the teaching profession young men and women of native ability, and will enable them to take special training for their work. And here it is that the High School will be of service to the county schools. For the present, at least, the county schools must depend upon the High School for the education of the teachers who will take charge of the rural schools. Only one in five of the teachers in the South have had Normal School courses; many of them are not even High School graduates. My plan, and it can be carried out in Garrard county as it is elsewhere, is: 1st, A centrally located High School, first class in every respect.

2d, Two or three graded common schools at convenient locations, maintaining a two year High School course.

3d, Consolidation of the remaining schools into about half the present number.

4th, A tax levy of twenty cents on the hundred dollars to be distributed throughout the county to supplement the state fund. The County Board, under the law, has the power to make these improvements. Will the people approve? If not, why not?

Mr. John Rout was burned to death on the premises of Mr. A. J. Rice on last Saturday evening. Mr. Rout, by choice, for a number of years has led a nomadic life. When on last Saturday evening he camped by an old mill race, building a fire to make his quarters for the night as comfortable as possible, the tree caught fire and sometime during the night it fell across his body. When found Monday morning by the farm hands his body was so horribly burned that he was only recognized by a knife and some other trinkets he always carried. His remains were placed in the Fork cemetery Monday afternoon. The inquest held by Coroner, H. C. Simpson, brought out the foregoing facts.

Mr. J. M. Eager is constructing a large tobacco barn on his farm.

2.—All Democrats who are legal voters shall be entitled to vote in said primary election, and are requested to do so.

3.—Any person who desires to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Judge or Commonwealth's Attorney shall, not later than April 30, 1909, give notice of such intention, in writing, to G. L. Penny, Chairman of the District Committee of the Thirteenth Judicial District, and, in addition, candidates for the nomination for Circuit Judge shall, at the time of giving said notice, deposit with the aforesaid chairman the sum of $600, and candidates for the nomination for Commonwealth's Attorney shall, at the time of giving said notice deposit with the chairman $300.

4.—Said District Committee shall meet at the office of the secretary in Danville, Kentucky, on Wednesday, May 5, 1909 at 2 p. m., and if, at the expiration of the time fixed by section 3 hereof, there be not more than one candidate for Circuit Judge or Commonwealth's Attorney, who has complied with the conditions of Section 3, then the Committee will declare to be the nominee for the office sought, that person who is the only candidate, and shall refund to such candidate the entrance fee paid by him, less his proportion of the costs already accrued from advertising and preparing for the election.

5.—The polls shall be opened in each and every precinct of all the counties in the district aforesaid, in the usual and regular voting places.

6.—Upon the closing of the polls, the officers shall proceed to count the ballots and to make returns, and in so doing shall be governed by the provisions of the general election laws, and the returns shall be made to the chairman of the respective counties in the district, who will deliver the stub-books, the certificates, and any questioned ballots to this Committee.

7.—The officers of election shall be selected from lists to be offered by the candidates, in accordance with the provisions of the primary election law, by the district committee.

8.—Each candidate shall be entitled to designate by written notice to the chairman of each county committee in the district, not less than five days before May 15th, 1909, the name of one person for each voting precinct in each county, to act as challenger and inspector for said candidate at said primary election.

9.—On the next day after the returns shall have been made, the committee shall meet and canvass the vote, cast and issue certificates of nomination.

10.—The chairman of the district is directed to employ a competent person to copy from the regular registration books made in Danville and Harrodsburg in 1908, the names of all Democrats, and the person so employed shall return the copies, certified as required by law, to the chairman, who shall cause them to be duly delivered to the officers of election. The chairman is further directed to cause to be printed and prepared for use the requisite number and kind of ballots, which shall bear the face simile of his signature, and he will procure the necessary election supplies and cause them, together with the ballots, to be delivered to the officers of election, as required by law.

11.—The chairman will cause copies hereof, certified by himself and the secretary of the committee, to be posted at the court house door in Stanford, Lancaster, Danville and Harrodsburg, and in twenty other conspicuous places in each county in the district for not less than forty days prior to May 15th, 1909, and said notice shall be published in each Democratic newspaper in the District.

Said Committee, on motion, then adjourned.

The Possum and The Negro.

The possum and the negro represent a serious problem to Mr. Taft. After having eaten the possum, what is he going to do about the negro?

Eating the possum—that is to say, enjoying the enthusiastic hospitality of the South; realizing that the South is at present more than half inclined to make a hero of him, and that it is beginning to expect large things from his administration—no doubt all this has, and will have in the future, a certain effect upon his "Southern policy."

In short, the possum, and all the talk back and forth across the festive boards to which the possum lent its gracious and juicy presence, has likely strengthened Mr. Taft's idea that the "Solid South" is breakable, and that he is the man to break it.

Perhaps; but how about the negro? How much of the Southern point of view with regard to the negro did Mr. Taft imbibed while eating the possum? The tumult and the shouting dies, the possums and the Tafts depart. But the negro is still here. And Mr. Taft is going to show himself a mighty clever politician indeed if he can break the solid Democratic South without at the same time impairing the Republican solidarity of a few Northern states.—Don Marquis, in Uncle Remus's—The Home Magazine for March.

The New Wool Warehouse.

The building of the big wool warehouse at Chicago is going to revolutionize the wool business in this country to some extent. It has already shown its influence in softening the arrogant attitude of the wool buyers in the West. They have been in the field for some time showing the social side of their natures and trying to curry favor with the sheep raisers. Formerly they were haughty and unapproachable, practically fixing their own terms for the season's crop. The new enterprise will put a lid on the operations of the wool trust in the East and now it will be Chicago and not Boston that will hold the trump cards. The wool warehouse at Chicago is practically owned and controlled by the men who grow wool. With this facility for storing their wool they can be reasonably independent of the buyer. While there is no desire to use this as a club to force the market out of a legitimate channel sheep growers will insist on having their rights and getting all they are entitled to. It will have the effect of making a more uniform market for wool and will be a great convenience to both producers and manufacturers. The chances are that some big wool factories will start up in Chicago, but that will be all the better. They will be closer to the source of supply and to a great field for consumption. Boston has had her day. Work is being rushed on the new building night and day, over 300 workmen being employed. The projects say it will be ready for the wool by May 15. One important feature of this building is that it will be absolutely fire proof throughout and in that respect at least will surpass any other wool depository in the world. The wool brought here will be stored and classed and the buyer will have the very best facilities for getting just what he wants.—Shepherd's Crittendon.

Which is Which?

The benevolent old gentleman stopped at the sight of the two similar-looking infants in the baby carriage, and said in a pleasant voice to the girl in attendance:

"Ah! Twins?"

"Yes, sir," replied the girl; "both boys."

"So?" said the old gentleman.

"How do you tell them apart? Which is which?"

"This one," said the nurse, pointing, "is this, and that one is that."

"Dear me," said the old gentleman, "how very interesting. But," he added, indicating the second one, "might not this one be this also?"

"It might," said the girl, after a short pause; "then, of course, that one would be that."

"Well, then," said the old gentleman, "how do you manage to separate them?"

"We seldom do, but when we want to, we put one in one room and the other in another."

"Do you, indeed? Which one do you put in one room?"

"Sometimes this one and sometimes that."

"How do you know which one you're putting in which room?"

"We look and see which is in the other room, and then we know the other is in the which room."

"Very good," said the old gentleman, warming up to the problem, "but if one of them were in the house and the other were away somewhere, would you be able to tell which was in the house?"

"Oh, yes, sir," said the girl earnestly; "all we would have to do would be to look at him and then we would know that the one we saw was the one in the house, and then, of course, the one away somewhere would be the other. There are only two of them, you see, which makes it very easy."

The benevolent gentleman then passed on—Philadelphia Public Leader.

Prof. H. A. Howell, of Havana, Cuba, Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

As long as I can remember my mother was a faithful user and friend of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, but never in my life have I realized its true value until now," writes Prof. H. A. Howell, of Howell's American School, Havana, Cuba. "On the night of February 31 our baby was taken sick with a very severe cold; the next day was worse and the following night his condition was desperate. He could not lie down and it was necessary to have him in the arms every moment. Even then his breathing was difficult. I did not think he would live until morning. At last I thought of my mother's remedy, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which we gave, and it afforded prompt relief, and now three days later, he has fully recovered. Under the circumstances I would not hesitate a moment in saying that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and that only saved the life of our dear little boy." For sale by F. P. Frisbie.

Good Comparison.

A story is told by a married lady who compared her husband to a handsome piano lamp that he had presented to her. Her husband felt quite flattered until she mentioned particular points of the resemblance. "Well," she said, "you know my dear, it has a good deal of brass about it, it is handsome to look at, it is not remarkably brilliant, requires a good deal of attention, is sometimes unsteady on its legs, liable to explode when half full, flares up occasionally, is always out at bed time, and is bound to smoke."—Casey Co., News.

Influence of Newspapers.

A school teacher who has been a long time engaged in his profession, and witnessed the influence of a newspaper on the minds of a family of children, wrote as follows:

I have found it to be a universal fact, without exception, those scholars of both sexes and of all ages, who have access to newspapers at home, when compared with those who have not, are:

1. Better readers, excellent in pronunciation, and consequently read more and understandingly.
2. They are better spellers, and define words with ease and accuracy.
3. They obtain practical knowledge in geography in almost half the time it requires of others, as the newspapers have made them acquainted with the location of the important parts of nations, their government and doings on the globe.
4. They are better grammarians, for, having become so familiar with every style in the newspaper, from the commonplace advertisement to the finished and classical oration of the statesman, they more readily comprehend the meaning of the text, and consequently analyze its construction with accuracy.
5. They write better compositions, using better language, containing more thought, more clearly and correctly expressed.
6. Those young men who have for years been readers of newspapers, and are always taking the lead in debating societies, exhibit a more extensive knowledge upon a greater variety of subjects, and express their views with greater fluency, clearness, and correctness.—Shelby Record.

To Keep Eggs.

When eggs are only required to be preserved for two or three months they keep very well packed in dry salt or bran. The meat of the egg may shrink and rattle within the shell when shaken, but its edibility is not impaired. Coating the egg with vaseline or butter will also keep it for a short time or any application which effectively seals the pores of the shell and excludes air will prolong the freshness of eggs. If the egg is even momentarily submerged in boiling water, the albumen thereby becomes sufficiently coagulated to prevent the entrance of air. In some of the rural districts in England and Scotland, eggs for home consumption are smutted over with a mixture of sulphur and lampblack, a cheap and effective preservative.

New Materials for Spring.

"Crepe-serges" they call the new woolen weaves that are as soft and pliant as the most fragile silk, and yet have all the spidery wear-defying qualities of the old-time serges. "Silk serge" is another of the Spring materials that will be new only to the younger generation. It is a reincarnation of the old-time diagonal twilled silk that went under that name years ago. It is a finer material both to weave and texture than the ribbed oxford silks that were used this Winter. It will be worn freely in suits and dresses, for it has the good qualities of both materials that give it its name, being firm but wonderfully soft and pliant.

Voiles and veillings have been pronounced "passes" in the fashion dictionary. Nevertheless many of the smart Spring and Summer dresses will be made in the still lovely though unfashionable cotton voiles. Foulard comes in with the bordered pongees and marquisettes, and its popularity will be more firmly fixed than ever. So few trimmings were really well adapted to it and almost every one fell back on the time worn combination of foulard and lace ad nauseam. Now, however, the bordure redeems the situation. Many of the foulards have three and four inch borders, Persian in design and Oriental in coloring, that constitute a trimming in themselves. In fact the borders are being shown in all sorts of Spring and Summer materials besides the silks and pongees.—The April Delinquent.

Processional
to Calvary

(From Stainer's "Overture," "Chorale.")

Flung wide the gates for the Savior
To tread in His royal way,
He has come from above, in His power and love
To die on this Passion day.
His cross is the sign of a love divine,
His crown is the thorn-wreath
of woe,
He bears His load on the sorrowful road
And bends 'neath the burden low.

How sweet is the grace of His sacred face
And how beyond compare Though weary and worn, with the merciless scorn
Of a world He has come to spare.
The burden of wrong that earth
bears along,
Past evil, and evil to be,
All sin of man since the world began,
They have laid, dear Lord, on Thee.

Then on to the end, my God and my friend,
With Thy banner lifted high Thou art come from above, in Thy
power and love
To endure and suffer and die!

Woman and the Life Festival

IN THE dim childhood of the human race, man, not woman, was made the central figure. It appears, of much that celebrated the triumphs of life over death, the conquests of mankind over the forces that beset and menaced the highest but not the strongest of the animals. Fatherhood was honored more than motherhood, in some parts of the crude, young world, and the patriarchal head of the family quite eclipsed his mate or mates in such distinction as came from obedience to the injunction to "be fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth."

It is different now. In this stage of the world's development the festival of the renewing and reawakening of life is mainly feminine, notwithstanding the fact that it celebrates the resurrection of the Son of Man. Women, not men, make of Easter the great spectacle and day of rejoicing which it has become in nearly all parts of the Christian world. Women predominate in the churches. Women give the Easter streets their glow of color and wealth of charm.

The world understands now, if it did not long ago, that woman is the high priestess of the temple of life. She is the mother, the nurse, the guardian angel of childhood. She is the teacher, the comforter, the home builder. She takes few lives and saves many. She risks her own life that others may live. Woman earns her primacy in the great festival of the year's new birth.

In the realm of the spirit, also, woman is the priestess of life. She is the embodiment, in a higher degree than man, of the hope of the race, the buoyancy and faith of the soul, the optimism of trust in the reign of good and the triumph of life over death. She has more of the resurrection spirit than man.

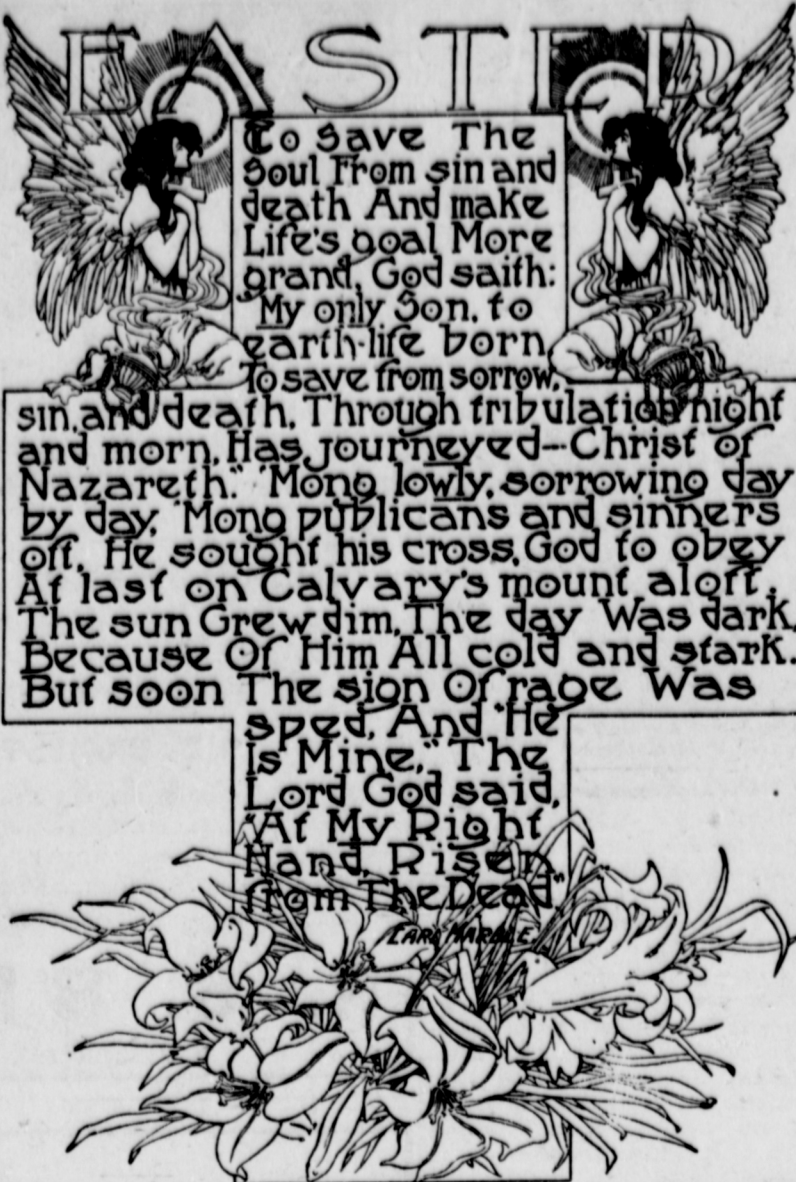

It is for this reason, quite as much as because of woman's grace and charm and song and laughter, that she fits so pre-eminently the Easter environment. She has the spirit and mental outlook of the spring. She responds more sensitively and joyously than man to the reawakening of life on the earth, the bursting of buds, the unfolding of little leaves, the quickening of forest and orchard, field and garden.

It is easier for woman to believe than for man, easier for her to feel and thrill to the appeal of the resurrection. She enters more intensely than man into the very heart and soul of the Easter story. And the spirit that accepts most unreservedly and gladly Easter's religious and historic meaning is the spirit which is best attuned to the springy glory of the world.

The difference is clearly marked early in life. Easter is far more to the girl than to the boy. The former, not the latter, finds that the day appeals to her strongly before she understands much of its significance. The boy's interest is narrower, less certain, less hearty. He is out of touch with much that his sister feels in the Easter ceremonies and the Easter customs.

From infancy to old age, therefore, the spring festival is distinctively a woman's festival. It is feminine in outward beauty and charm. It is feminine, also, in the inner grace of the heart that feels and the spirit that believes in the reign of good and the unending triumphs of life over death, the cradle over the grave, the new over the old, the soul over the mortal body.

A grateful man never has to look into his pocketbook to see how much he has to be thankful for.

AN EASTER TRAGEDY

The fat red-and-white man kept walking up and down the aisle showing people where to sit, and finally he sat down in the pew directly in front of Helen. "I thought he used to be a rusher, but I wasn't quite sure," Helen told the egg.

The long prayers did not seem half as long as usual, for it wasn't hard to kneel when you could put the egg down in a dark corner and see it glitter as you turned it around. The organ pipes told their old-time fascination, and Helen hardly realized that the pastor had begun to talk before she heard him say: "Now to the King"—and they all jumped up.

And the egg! However in the world could it have jumped right out of her hand and into the fat man's pew? But it had, and there it shone as brightly as ever. If she could only snatch it up quickly! She leaned "way over to make the attempt, but every one else was sitting down. "Sit down, Helen," whispered grandma, sharply, and in the blindness of humiliating tears Helen sat. Visions of disgrace rose up and threatened to overwhelm her.

To have one of the "rushers" come up after church and say: "Madame, is this your egg?" and grandma would say: "Why, no," and then she would have to say: "Please, it's mine!" and everybody would know that Helen Gardner had brought an egg to church! Oh, why hadn't she been born a heathen, so she wouldn't have to go to church on Easter, but could stay at home and roll eggs without waiting until next day! But, most bitter thought of all, maybe grandma would not let her have the egg again after the rusher man gave it back, and she couldn't roll it even next day.

"Freely ye have received, freely give," the pastor was saying. Give—what wouldn't she give just to get the egg back without grandma's knowledge? Perhaps when the man got up—He was getting up! Of course! He always passed the shiny gold plate and it was time to get her money out of her handkerchief. But why did grandma's figure stiffen in a sudden dazed comprehension as she gasped in dismay, and why did people titter in that disconcerting way? They must surely have seen the egg in the fat man's pew. Helen dashed the tears out of her big eyes and looked at him as he marched in blissful ignorance up the aisle with the other rushers. What was that awful glittering mass of ruin on his broad black back? Oh, it was, it was!

"Sit down!" commanded grandma, fiercely, but the tragedy was too great. "My egg! my lovely egg!" screamed Helen. "He sat on it! He's—he's spoiled it!"

Easter in the Tyrol.
Children living in this province of Austria follow bands of musicians, who go through the streets and up the steep hillside singing Easter carols and playing on guitars. The children carry lighted torches, and when a song is finished run up to the doors and knock on them. They open quickly and there stand the housemothers with lots of beautifully colored eggs for the young people.

Madonna Lilies and Other Flowers That Are Sacred

In these sunny days life grows re-orient from the dust, a latent consciousness of wings afloat in the buried seed, and as if from very gladness of heart the sap in the naked trees mounts upward, ever upward, into the golden light. The tiny leaves, close clasped together in the bud, flutter timidly apart, to grow bravely green, and flaunt their color on the passing breeze. The maple tree in the yard now hears a voice out of the unseen, bidding it come up higher, and gladly does it make answer in the green tassels and shining leaves, telling of new growth and broader horizon.

Out on the old arbor, the rough and scraggy grapevine is sending forth little gray tendrils, reaching farther toward heaven and away from the earth that hides its foothold. How blithely does nature exult forth her yearly message to every waiting heart—her message of resurrection, joyous activity, high-mounting aspiration! Her myriad voices cry through every sense, to touch and penetrate the spirit with gladness and good cheer. New readings from the Gospel of eternal hope are seen on every side, in the growth of plant, the unfolding of leaf, the blossoming of flower. The woods are full of these shy spring darlings—violets, dandelions, adder's tongues, spring beauties, bluebells and many a nameless wildling, all hurrying gayly to deck the earth and celebrate the Eastertide.

Certain flowers and plants have always been set apart as sacred things, and from the very dawn of history we hear of flower-decked altars and wreaths of sacrifice. The heathen temples were adorned with earth's fairest blossoms, scattered on the altars, and twined around the brow of priest and acolyte. The amaranth bloomed in deathless beauty upon the Olympian heights, the myrtle was beloved of Apollo, the rose, the lily, the mistletoe were favorites of legend and myth. The flowers once sacred to Freya, the spring goddess of northern mythology, were chosen for their spotless purity, in form and color. And when heathen myth gave place to Christian truth, these sacred treasures were transferred to the Virgin, and became symbols of the queen of heaven.

So it is that in every story of saint or madonna we find either the lily or the rose—the lily with its fragrance, its bending, bowing, waving bells, seems to whisper of purity and worship; the rose, with its faint and far-away odor, which seems to hint of eternal hope. One might almost find a garden with flowers all named for the Virgin Mary, generally because they chance to blossom on Our Lady's days (such as the visitation, the assumption, her birth, baptism, purification). There are lady's slipper, lady's mantle, lady's fingers, lady's smock, lady's tresses. Virgin's bower, or clematis, begins to bloom in July, the feast of visitation, and is at full bloom at assumption in August.

The lily was first found in connection with the Virgin in the story of her ascension to heaven, and it originated probably in the second century. According to this legend, it was three days after the burial of our Lord's mother that the apostles visited and opened her grave and found it filled with fragrant, spotless lilies. Since then these matchless flowers have been called "Madonna lilies," or "flowers of the Virgin." The common white lily of our gardens, that blooms in July, and is the sweetest and most graceful of all flowers, might well be called "holly." No one seems to know its origin. It is never found wild in Palestine, nor can we find just where it grows without culture. But we see it in the faded pictures of old Italian masters and Netherland painters, made long before the discovery of this New World.

Nearly all of our great poets have praised this flower. Chaucer and Spenser speak of it as a mystical blossom in their far-away gardens and lady's bowers. Shakespeare it was who first said: "To gild refined gold and paint the lily," and these lines from one of his sonnets tell a truth that can never be forgotten:

For sweetest things turn sourest by their Decays
Lilies that fester smell far worse than weeds.

Milton loved the lily and always spoke of it in connection with the rose—as did also Swinburne when he talks of lilies and languors of virtue:

The roses and raptures of vice,
And Tennyson says of Maud's garden that it was—

Fairer than aught in the world beside,
All made up of the lily and the rose.
Dear old Herrick, that sweet singer of spring, has one lily thought that is like a sigh:

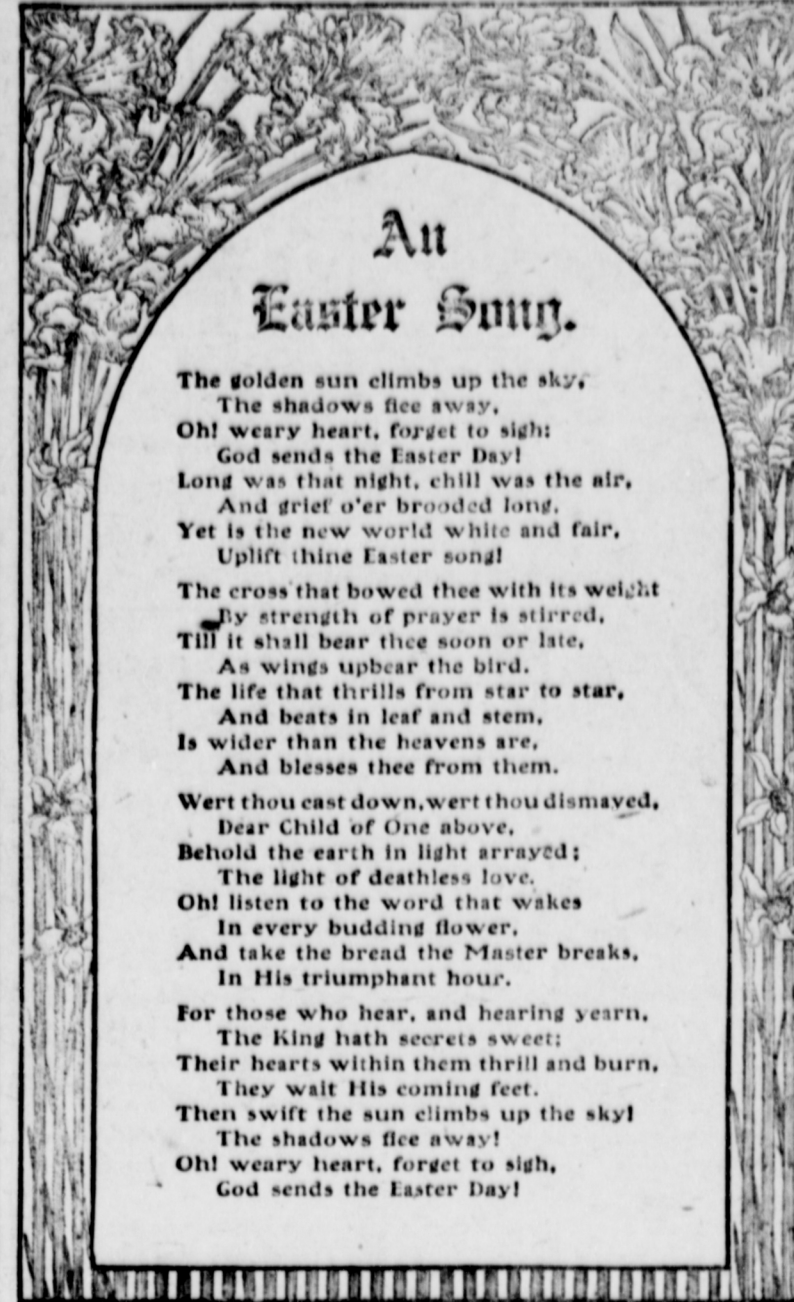

But vanished man,
Like to a lily lost, never can bloom anew
Or bring his days to see a second spring.

Shelley has the lily in his wonderful garden along with his sensitive plant. Wordsworth often praises it. Burns mentions it frequently. Tennyson has lovely lily thoughts; but our own Longfellow draws the prettiest picture of maidenhood—

Bears a lily in thy hand—
Gates of brass can not withstand
One touch of that magic wand.

James Russell Lowell always comes near to the heart of things and left us more than one sweet lily poem and allusion, and our minor poets all tell their love for this perfect specimen of nature's handiwork.

"Our Sweet Will Shakespeare" was born in April, and it was of April's flowers that he sang most frequently and most sweetly.

Easter in the World.

ACCORDING to an old tradition, when the Roman soldiers concerning it, the king at once ordered the sacred wood increased in gold and silver, and reverently hung over the door of the temple. Subsequently, Abijah, son of Rehoboam, coveting the precious setting, had it taken down, and after appropriating the metal had the wood buried deep in the earth—so deep, in fact, that a well was dug over it, the famous Pool of Bethesda, the tree of mercy at the bottom giving healing qualities to the waters. Finally, as the time appointed approached, the tree rose and floated on the surface, and the Jews took it and made it into the cross upon which the Christ was crucified.

Wood of the Cross.
As some claim the aspen was the wood of the cross, others select the weeping willow for the tree upon which Judas hanged himself.

There is an old legend as sinister as the fatalistic Dedipus myth that claims that before the birth of Jesus his mother dreamed that her child would murder his father and betray his God for money. To prevent this tragedy, the babe was put in a chest and cast upon the sea, but was rescued and adopted by a king.

According to tradition, Pontius Pilate as well as Judas committed suicide, for upon his return to Rome so indignant was the emperor over the governor's actions while in Jerusalem that he cast him into prison, a humiliation too great for so weak a spirit to bear.

Weird is the legend told concerning the restless, tormented ghost of him who could wash his hands but not his conscience of offense.

The body of the suicide was first cast into the Tiber, but so turbulent were the storms that immediately followed that it was taken out of the river, carried to Gaul, and thrown into the Rhone. Tempests were the instant result. Again the body was removed, this time to Lake Geneva. The same disasters in its train. Once more an attempt was made to overcome the evil. Surely, in a far-away mountain lake locked in the center of the Alps even the spirit of a Pilate could do no harm. Vain hope. There arose storms of wind and rain, there were drowned, trees torn up by the roots, and happy-hearted homes washed away to death and destruction.

Quieting Troubled Spirit.
Then at the call of the emergency came the man of the hour to answer it. Alone he went to the lake, and with the sole weapons of a scholar's knowledge and magic battled with the spirit until it signified an agreement to remain at peace if only it might have one day of freedom during the year.

The storms ceased, but long afterward whoever went to Pilate's lake on a Good Friday saw an awful specter clothed in a red toga upon a rock above the water, "the grim, ghastly figure of him who saw no ill yet permitted it."

Wonderful Passion Flower.
In the passion flower the reverent imagination has discovered not a cross alone, but also the pillar of scourging, the nails, the crown of thorns, and even spots to mark the five wounds of the crucified body.

The Spaniard will tell you that the aspen trembles because that was the wood of the cross. However this may be, there is a delightful old legend concerning the tree out of which the cross was made.

Agad Adam, weary of toil and sin and eager for death, sent to the angel guarding the Tree of Life to beg a boon. The messenger brought back the welcome promise that Adam should die in three days, and the added gift of three small seeds which were mysteriously to be placed under the dead man's tongue before burial.

From these seeds, the quaint narrative continues, sprang three saplings that later united, three in one, symbol of the Trinity. With this miraculous tree Moses and David each wrought many wonders. But King Solomon, his whole heart set upon the building of the temple, had the tree cut down, intending it for a magnificent beam. Strive as the workmen would, however, nowhere would the beam fit, and, cast aside, it was later used as a bridge across a nearby stream. When the queen of Sheba made her notable visit she refused to Resolutions in Memory of J. C. Robinson.

The undersigned having been appointed as a committee from the Bible school at Lancaster on resolutions of respect to the memory of our late brother J. C. Robinson, would respectfully submit the following:

Resolved first, Our brother departed this life on the Lord's day, March 28th at five o'clock a. m., having rounded out a career of more than sixty nine years. His spirit took its flight from the body to the Father who gave it at the season of the year, on the day of the week and at the hour of the day, early morn, about the dawning of the day, that the Savior came forth triumphantly from the grave and went to the Father whence he had come. A beautiful and consoling thought.

Resolved second, This Bible school has suffered and mourns the loss of a faithful, earnest laborer, who was ever ready to bear his part of the heat and burden of the day. We miss his radiant face, his gentle spirit and his wise counsel. One has said, "Youth is the time to believe, age is the time to trust." His life was one of faithfulness and trustfulness from beginning to end.

Resolved third, That we extend our condolence to his bereaved family, wife and daughters, and would say to them as he lived so let your lives be.

Resolved fourth, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this school, a copy be sent to the family and be printed in the CENTRAL RECORD.

Probably The Last

During the past winter, Mr. J. T. Sherrow, of Bryantsville, has cut and hauled from the James Burnside farm probably the last poplar trees of any consequence in Garrard county.

This is an appalling fact, and the fifty trees that were cut should be remembered on next Harbor Day.

From this grove was sawed about 40,000 feet of lumber, that sold for one dollar per hundred for first quality, and fifty cents for second, in the tree.

Republicans as well as Democrats

We appreciate the following from an old subscriber, but we can't "hope" his way. We will however give them a fair deal, next November.

Washington Ind., March 27th 1909.

Editor Central Record,

Dear Sir:—Enclosed please find one dollar to renew my subscription to the RECORD. Being a native of Garrard County I like to read the local news although I have been away forty years. Mr. Landram the former Editor of the RECORD is a son of the Col. of my old regiment, the 19th Kentucky Infantry. I think you have improved the RECORD since you assumed the control of its columns, yet I must say I have one objection, and if you will pardon me I will tell you, it is your politics. As I am a life long Republican I suppose you will say the same about me, however I wish you success and hope the paper will still improve and also your subscription list and I hope the old county will go republican next election, notwithstanding your efforts in behalf of Democracy.

Respectfully,

J. W. Ramsey.

Nut Wood 600, record 2:18 1/4.

1st dam Win Russell, dam of Maud 2:08 1/4.

Silver Wood should make one of the greatest stock horses in Kentucky. 1st because he is backed up by sire and dam of the best blood that can be found. All good horses run back to these families of horses. 2nd because he is one of the grandest looking 4 year old horses I ever saw. He is 15 1/2 hands high, good bone, fine style and finish, black and white feet and silver tail. He is just good broke to harness, had no work for speed but he can show a 2:40 gait any time with all around high true action.

Each day the market calls more clearly for true, high and balanced action, clear trot, and beauty and Silver Wood has them all and I can't see why he should not make Kentucky more famous by his get.

Silver Wood will be kept during the season of 1909 at my stable in Lancaster, Ky., and will be permitted to serve 30 good mares at the very low price of $12.50 to insure a living colt.

I am prepared to care for stock from a distance at reasonable price but no responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes of stock committed to my care.

NABOTH, JR.

Naboth, Jr. is a rich red bay, 8 years old and full 16 hands high, weighs 1225 pounds and is a horse of wonderful beauty, having a long, rangy neck and carrying a fine tail. He is a perfect gaited horse with superb all round action and like all sons of old Naboth he has great natural speed in harness and a greater racking horse can not be found in the State of Kentucky. I have been a dealer in fancy horses for ten years, furnishing them for all the markets in this country and I am anxious to encourage the breeders of horses to continue to raise better ones. As is generally known there is a scarcity of good horses, and those suitable for the Eastern market bring fancy prices. If the breeders could raise "Number one" horses they must take the mare to the right kind of sire. Naboth, Jr., beyond all doubt, is a horse that will produce that type of horses that the market demands, and for which the public is willing to pay high prices. I purchased this great young stallion at a fancy price because he has size, style, action, beauty and breeding. I had this horse worked 30 days and he stepped a mile in 2:40.

If like bogies like you can get the right kind of horses by breeding to Naboth, Jr. you will note that this stallion has the blood of Old Naboth, Hambleton 10, Old Messenger Chief, Red Wilkes, George Wilkes, Manbrino Chief, Pilot Jr and Harry Clay.

PEDIGREE.

By Naboth, 10016 2:19 1/4, He by Walsingham, 2166, sire of Latitude 2:19 1/4 and several others in the list. Walsingham by George Wilkes.

Naboth, Jr.'s first dam by Messenger Chief, Jr by Old Messenger Chief. Second dam by Crit Davis, by Red Wilkes, Third dam Thoroughbred.

Naboth, Jr. will be kept during the season of 1909 at my stable in Lancaster, Ky., and will be permitted to serve mares at the very low price $15.00 to insure a living colt. I am prepared to care for stock from a distance at reasonable price but no responsibility assumed for accidents or escapes of stock committed to my care.

NOTICE: Naboth, Jr., is the sire of the colt that won the 1100, champion colt stake, also the sire of the winner of the yearling stake, at the Lancaster Fair 1908.

Select the gilts for breeding from the litters of mature sows and aged boars, as they are stronger, more vigorous and will make more satisfactory brood sows than those from young and immature parentage.

In giving castor oil to animals allow one or two pints to a horse, four ounces to sheep, two ounces to pigs and two ounces to calves. Castor oil is an excellent purgative. In cases of scours it is advised to give small dis-es, combined with laudanum.

Wheat for May delivered overtopped the high point reached during the celebrated Gates deal in 1905 when it sold on the Board of Trade at $1.21 1/4

el. Only twice during the last twenty years has wheat sold at a higher figure on the local exchange.

A supply of succulent green food for fowls is a matter of importance at all seasons of the year, for green food naturally forms a large part of the daily diet of the fowl. At this particular season of the year, when it is of importance that the hens be producing plenty of eggs for hatching, it is very desirable that they have well-balanced rations.

A gallon of cream weighs 8 pounds.
A gallon of cream testing 20 per cent.
will contain 1.6 pounds of butter fat adding one-fifth to this gives 1.92 pounds of butter. A gallon of cream testing 45 per cent. will contain 3.6
pounds of butter fat, and adding one-fifth to this makes 4.32 pounds of butter.

Everyone who handles bees will get stung, but it need not be very often.
Do not irritate them, be steady in your motions, don't blow or breath hard about the hive, avoid loud talking and do not crush any bees. Beesting a great deal more when there is nothing for them to do. After a honey flow always have your face protected, by a bee veil and have smoker burning, but do not use it any more than it is absolutely necessary.—Farmers

It is never wise to prophesy and of ten dangerous to advise friends as to future developments. With all indications pointing this year to the biggest crop of tobacco ever raised in Kentucky, the Editor of the "Farmers Home Journal" has "taken his life in his hands," and has advised friends that this might be a good year to "cut out tobacco." If fifty thousand of these "friends" should heed this advice we will be called a "false prophet." If only five or ten thousand act on our advice then they will call us "blessed" and the other forty thousand will "wish they had."

Prof. E. S. Goode, of the State Experiment Station, in a lecture delivered before the class in Agriculture of State University shatters the old tradition so firmly established in the South that the turkey buzzard is an innocent and useful scavenger and should be protected from all harm.
Prof. Goode, whose lecture was on the subject of hog cholera, declared that the buzzards are among the most active agents in spreading this destructive disease, and that instead of the State having a law to protect them the Legislature should pass an act requiring the destruction of every buzard in the Commonwealth. Why not bury the dead hogs?

BRYANTSVILLE

There has been quite an epidemic of pneumonia in this vicinity for several weeks, but it has about subsided and all of the patients are doing nicely, due to the skill of our popular physi-

Mr. Lecher Christopher is down from Somerset to spend several weeks

Quite an enjoyable time was spent by all who attended the "Spelling crowd was present and after the contest an informal reception was held, all being served. Neither side was able to win, as the last contestants,

Miss Mary Skinner and Mrs. J. C.
Williams missed the same word. It was under the auspices of the W. H.
M. S., and a neat little sum realized which will be used for a worthy cause.

Mrs. W. L. Glass and daughter, Mary Lee, of Hanley, spent Thursday and Friday here.

Miss Mayme Ballard came home
Wednesday, after a very delightful stay of three months in South Georgia and Florida. Miss Ballard was a guest for several weeks of friends in Quitman and Valdosta, Ga., where she was extensively entertained and the recipient of much social attention.
She also visited Jacksonville St. Augustine, Atlanta and Chattanooga.

Miss Maud Martin entertained a few of her friends very informally at cards Wednesday evening. Miss Martin is an ideal hostess.

Mrs. J. C. Williams and Master "Jack"

Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. T. M. Adams has returned to

Mr. R. A. McGrath, of North Carolina has returned home after spending a few days with his mother. He came to attend the funeral of his aunt, Miss Belle McGrath, at Danville Thursday.

Miss Mayme Ballard went to Lexington Wednesday to see "The Merry Widow." She will remain until after the wedding of Misses Annie Higgin bottom and Lucy Kerr next week.

Mrs. W. A. Dickerson and Miss Eliza

VERDICT

Will make season of 1909 at my place, 4 1/2 miles from Lancaster on Poor House Pike.

Verdict is a dark chestnut, 15 1/2 hands, coming 8-year-old,
with as much natural style and action as any stallion living, as fine as any mare gelding you will see, combining all the qualities as to looks, breeding, style and action that go to make a great sire and a first-class producer. If the law of nature repeats itself—that like begets like—then you have an ideal stock horse in Verdict. I claim that Verdict carries more of the blood of Old Peavine and Washington
Denmark than any horse living, as his breeding will show.

Verdict's career as a show horse has rarely been equalled, winning as a 2 year old and as a 3 year old straight through the Fair Circuit without a break, closing his 3-year-old campaign at the Louisville Horse Show by winning two first ties in his class and winning second in his class for stallions any age, thus going against the pick of the aged stallions from Kentucky, Tennessee and Missouri, in a ring of fifteen horses.
Verdict's show career was cut short in 1902 by sickness, only showing at Richmond and Lexington where he won first premiums in aged stallion class.

In 1904 Verdict had fully recovered from his illness, and after making a heavy season he stepped first at Kirtsville, where he won the $500 stake for best stallion, mare or gelding, also first for best aged stallion. His second show was at Lexington, where he won first, then to Harrodsburg, where he won first in aged stallions, first in Sweepstakes, (8 entries) first in combined ring and first in model ring at this fair. Verdict met with an unfortunate accident which kept him from going to the Louisville Horse Show, for which he was being specially prepared under the able supervision of Met S. Cohen.

Pedigree.

Verdict 1621, sired by Cero Gordo 1022; by Black Squirrel
58; by Black Eagle 74; by King Williams 67; by Washington
Denmark 64. Verdict's dam, Jay Bird 1014; by Peavine 45; 2d dam by Young Diamond; by Diamond Denmark 68; by Washington Denmark 64.

Cero Gordo's dam, Miss Richmond 561, by King Richard; he by Peavine 55. King Richard's dam Pansos (thor) by Imported Pharo. Miss Richmond's dam Jenny Lynn 361, by Stonewall Jackson 72 by Washington Denmark 64.
You will see that Verdict traces three times to Peavine 55 (Old Peavine) and three times to Washington Denmark, thus combining the blood of two of the greatest show horses that ever lived.
